An Invisible Aid to Vision

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

GLASSES, when needed to correct troubles of the eyes or faulty vision, are a boon to most of us, yet a bespectacled actress might cap the same thing in true of dancers, and even public speakers might find glasses inconvenient. Wearing glasses would be definitely dangerous to football players, boxers or chemical workers.

Modern medicine has found the answer to this problem in one of its most interest-provoking achievements—contact lenses. These lenses, which do away with the need for ordinary glasses, are fitted under the eyelids and over the eyes in such a way as to be invisible.

Worn by Thousands
Brought out about 20 years ago, contact lenses are now worn, according to Dr. Thomas Augustus Griffith of Kentucky, by about 10,000 people in the United States. There is one type of eye disorder in which they are found particularly effective. This is known as keratoconus in which there is a cone shape of the front part of the cornea or eyeball.

The contact lenses may also be used effectively in cases of severe astigmatism in which the eyeball is misshapen. They can also be worn following the removal of a cataract or hardened lens. They are also used when one eye requires much greater correction than the other.

Cause Unknown
The cause of keratoconus is not known. It interferes greatly with eyesight on account of scarring of the cornea and the great amount of nearsightedness. The condition always affects both eyes but may start in one and progress to the other. Dr. Griffith has worn contact lenses himself for a period of three years or more.

In wearing a contact lens a fluid made up of salt and soda in water is employed. After a period of three or four hours the fluid may become cloudy, and the lens must be removed and fresh fluid put in.

These lenses, of course, must be fitted by the doctor but the patient soon can learn to remove and reinsert the lens. In fact, Dr. Griffith says that it requires only about ten minutes.

The lenses cannot be worn continuously. Such symptoms as slight burning of the lids may develop after a time. When this happens the lenses should be removed and the eyes given a chance to rest.

New Malaria Drug Receiving Praises

By Thomas R. Henry

(Chicago Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance)

WASHINGTON. — Development of a chemical superior to atabrine—one small dose a week will suppress malaria—has just been reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here by a group of American scientists headed by Dr. R. P. Low. Literally tons of atabrine had been fed soldiers in North Africa. Malaria and malaria-infected areas of Italy as well as in the Far East during the war, and it did its job. It kept the malaria rate of the army at a very low level.

At the start of the war it was perhaps the most dreaded of all diseases, threatening to disable large numbers of troops. Soldiers were required to take two or three atabrine pills a week. The new compound, labeled SN 7618, "is an effective suppressive when administered no more frequently than once weekly in a well tolerated dose," says the report of Dr. Low and his committee. In addition it does not discolor the skin, as does atabrine, nor does it give the disagreeable gastro-intestinal symptoms which sometimes are seen in the administration of atabrine.

SN 7618, the report says, will stop quickly an attack of ordinary malaria and it will "cure" one less common type of the disease when given for one or two days. The latter statement is significant.

since not even quinine was considered a cure for malaria. Once the organisms were in the blood and disease was likely to recur year after year. Atabrine was never claimed as more than a suppressant.

Atabrine, which is a synthetic antimalarial with a substance known as plasmoquin. More than ten years ago, certain British investigators claimed that they had been able to "cure" the most common type of malaria with this drug. The results, however, were questioned and the claims did not appear to stand up under investigation.

Big Road Jobs

To Start Soon

Road contracts involving an estimated outlay of $660,000 were awarded Wednesday by the provincial public works department, according to Hon. W. A. Tait, minister in charge. These cover 60 miles of main highways. The awards include a contract for hard surfacing the highway between Crossfield and Olds, a distance of 33 miles. This went to the Standard Gravel and Surfacing company of Calgary. Estimated cost is $500,000.

A contract for grading 27 miles of main highway from Calgary to five miles west of Cochrane was awarded to the Asinibolia Engineering company of Calgary. This cost $160,000. Work on both projects will commence shortly.

Hope to Transport 1,000,000 Tons Western Coal to East for Winter

OTTAWA, (CP) — E. J. Brunning, Canada's coal controller, said Wednesday the government hopes to have a record 1,000,000 tons of western coal shipped to central Canada and Quebec next winter.

Supplies from Alberta and British Columbia will be relied upon, Mr. Brunning said, but warned that even the unprecedented shipment could only relieve and not cure the situation.

He has informed western coal operators and railway executives that he will go west to meet them as soon as possible.

The shortage in the central provinces next winter is estimated at somewhere near 5,500,000 tons.

Movement of coal will be limited only by rail facilities. The job is expected to be one of the greatest Canadian railways have faced, inasmuch as space will be taxed with the yearly grain shipments east.

U.S. Seamen Reject Compromise; Long and Bitter Strike Threatened

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Frank J. Taylor, a spokesman for the ship operators in the threatened maritime strike, said Wednesday that the unions involved have rejected a new compromise offer on the work week for seamen.

Almost simultaneously, Joseph Curran, president of the United Brotherhood of Marine Workers, said "a long and bitter strike" will begin Friday night, as scheduled, unless the seamen's work week is cut or their pay boosted.

Mr. Taylor said the operators proposed to give the seamen a day off with pay for each week worked at sea. The offer was turned down by the U.M.W. he said.

Mr. Taylor declared the operators still are willing to submit the controversy to arbitration, but the unions won't agree.

Charges Canadian Farmers Lose $400,000,000 on Wheat Yearly

WINNIPEG, (CP) — Twenty-nine percent of the national income went to Canadian farmers in the first Great War and only 18 percent in the second, Col. A. C. Ross, M.P. for Laurier, told delegates to the Manitoba convention of the Progressive Conservative association Wednesday.

Discussing the government's price stabilization policy, Col. Ross charged that because the export price of Canadian wheat is $1.55 a bushel compared with the United States price of $2.18, Canadian farmers receive $400,000,000 less than the prevailing world price for their wheat each year.

The price stabilization program had cost the government $22,000,000 in December, 1941, to March, 1942, and the farmer was therefore carrying out the price policy over more than four years.

Referring to the recent dominion-provincial conferences, Col. Ross said: "As a man who has spent much time as an observer of the sessions of the conference, and as one who has read the complete report, I did not feel that (Prime Minister) King and (Finance Minister) Lasker were anxious to reach a reasonable settlement."

Oppose Direct Public Control

Of Personal Health Service

BANFF — Objection to the direct control of personal health services by the department of public health and to division of the province into health districts was voiced Tuesday at the Alberta division meeting of the Canadian Medical Association meeting here.

The division also objected to a penalty clause by which the administration would deal directly with doctors instead of through a medical organization.

The Alberta division decided also to circulate all doctors in the province for opinions on the new health insurance not passed by the Alberta legislature but not yet proclaimed.

Nebraska Primary Against Stassen

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Senator Hugh A. Butler won renomination handsily over the opposition at the primary election in Nebraska Tuesday.

Mr. Stassen's prospects for a late state Republican convention votes in 1948.

In another primary report issued by Chief of State Senator Charles C. Gossett (Dem., Idaho) was defeated by State Senator George E. Donart, supported by Senator Gossett's Democratic colleague, Senator Glen Taylor.

No Lack of Flour Evident in City

No shortage of flour or bread is apparent in Edmonton, it is reported. Flour mills reported in a check-up Wednesday as a result of a report that flour was scarce and a "serious bread shortage."

The Winnipeg report stated the reason for the shortage is Canada's commitments of grain to Europe which resulted in a 10 per cent reduction of flour for bakeries and the fact that consumption of bread had risen sharply during the war.

Charles Simmonds, secretary, Alberta Master Bakers' association, stated that bakers must exercise economy here but there is no hint of any shortage.

Argentina still has meagre stocks.

'Pernicious' Red Teaching Blamed For Treachery Here

BOURNEMOUTH, England, (CP) — Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council in the labor government, said Wednesday before the labor party convention that the "pernicious teaching" of the Communists probably undermined the persons whose activities were revealed in the Canadian espionage trials.

Speaking for the national executive against a resolution asking acceptance of the Communist party as an affiliate, Mr. Morrison said there was deep disturbing cases of espionage during the war in Britain and Communists had been involved. Their dupes had been sentenced.

The resolution was defeated.

Mr. Morrison said he had seen Communist machinery working from his post in the home office, where he was in charge during the war.

Perhaps spying was undertaken by all countries. It was done by professional spies, not through a political organization in the spy's own country working against the security of that country.

Member Protests Disparity Of Representation in Senate

By Richard Sennett

OTTAWA, — The government's proposed redistribution bill was criticized by the commonsense "rednecks" because it did not provide for a reshuffle of senate representation along with the proposed changes in the commonsense.

The criticism came from Ross Thatcher (C.O.P. Moose Jaw) who was checked up twice by the speaker for using uncomplimentary language about the other place. He proposed senate reforms including curbing its power to veto parliamentary legislation.

The young Saskatchewan member, reiterated the C.P. policy that there should not be any senate anyway. But if it had to continue it should be reformed. In 1941, he said, the Maritime provinces had 24 senators, as many as all the other provinces combined. The Northwest Territories, despite the fact that the Maritimes had only one-third as much population.

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Neil Macneil, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, said Wednesday the "worst confusions in which the world is mired" are deliberately manufactured by the Soviet Union.

Chief of police Reg. Jennings, a gent whose everyday business it is to keep the city in order, convinced further to crack the whip at the Highlands Golf course Wednesday.

Occasion was the annual golf outing of the Royal Curling club members had been disturbing cases of espionage during the war in Britain and Communists had been involved. Their dupes had been sentenced.

The resolution was defeated.

Mr. Morrison said he had seen Communist machinery working from his post in the home office, where he was in charge during the war.

Perhaps spying was undertaken by all countries. It was done by professional spies, not through a political organization in the spy's own country working against the security of that country.

The bunker battling was followed by a dinner in the clubhouse. Close to 100 banquet regulars were in attendance. Chairman for the occasion was E. (Quibb) Williams. Biggest bombshell of the day was the announcement by Royal Curling club president, Sam Murphy, that purchase of the club from the Royal Curling company has been effected by the members since rocks were stored in the spring.

Arrows Throttle Canadians 6-3 To Assume Junior Baseball Lead

After what happened at Clarke stadium Wednesday one might be excused for suspecting that the cream has risen to the top in the city's youth baseball league. Arrows, who a season ago, have taken over first place in the standings.

The Bumsen gained the ascendancy while turning back Val's seniors' Canadians 6-3.

Their triumph victory followed a 5-3 draw with their adversaries of last night in the opening game of the schedule. For the Canucks it marked their first setback.

Previously, the nod in three games, gained ties in another pair.

A couple of two-run innings — the fifth and eighth — provided Arrows' O'Neill with a building triumph over Canadians' Ron (Lefty) Matthews. Passes to Kilburn and Mendryk, followed by rinning singles from the bats of fifth baseman O'Neill accounted for the bulk of the fifth. These staked the stocky right-hander to a 4-1 lead. He never looked like losing after this.

Third-baseman "Red" Van Buren booted a long trip to spark the Arrow eighth frame uprising. The bow scored Kennedy and Kinsella. Arrows led 6-2... the writing was on the wall for keeps.

Both O'Neill and his portly partner brought a potent strikeout ball to the proceedings. The former turned 14 Canadians back on strikes. Matthews settled for a creditable 10.

A Magnificent Service

At the close of last week, William Lyon Mackenzie King became Canada's prime minister of longest service, entering upon his twentieth year as head of the government.

In public life since 1900, when he became deputy minister of labor, Mr. King has exhibited throughout his entire career an exemplary devotion to the welfare of the common man. It is this essential humanitarian viewpoint that has excited and maintained his continual interest in social security and the social legislation necessary to promote it.

In this respect, the prime minister himself has said: "I fought for measures of social security and national well-being in season and out of season, in parliament and out of parliament, in this country and in other countries. I have fought for them wherever the opportunity presented itself and, win or lose in the future, I intend to fight for them to the end of my days."

This, then, has been both the keynote and the theme of his magnificent service to Canada. But Mr. King is much more than a domestic figure. He has acquired fame abroad as a wise and thoughtful influence in international affairs. And his national program of social security in Canada has not been implemented as fully as he has wished, the failure has been due to his preoccupation with world politics into which great and tragic events precipitated him.

For Mr. King had thought that he would be asked to take up the intolerable burden of national leadership during a world war. Nevertheless, from the very beginning, when in 1939 he anticipated Britain's declaration of war by announcing that, whatever happened, Canada would stand at her side, he exhibited that sure touch and knowledge of international movements that raised him to eminence in the councils of the nations.

Mr. King is a leader who leads. Despite an overpowering personal modesty and even shyness, one has been in doubt as to whether he directs Canada and the Liberal party.

The prime minister has often been criticized as a colorless figure. And he does indeed lack the magnetism of perfect power and the tricks of personality utilized, sometimes unhappily, by lesser men.

But his inward life has been illuminated and brightened by an unflinching devotion to those Christian principles which he saw clearly threatened in the war and which, undoubtedly, stem from his bottomless sympathy with those who labor and are heavy laden.

Mr. King has said that without his early Christian training, his life would be its color, its sustaining power in times of adversity, the inspiration of his best endeavors.

This is perhaps the most revealing portrait on one whose life and career have been of inestimable value to Canada and to Canadians.

Week-End in Canada

Forty persons met violent deaths in Canada over the long week-end. Sixteen were drowned. Twelve died in traffic accidents. A man was shot in a bar fight. A woman was killed in a street fight. One person was asphyxiated, one shot accidentally, one killed in an explosion.

There is nothing that law or public administration can do to make the week-end safe, and little either can do to make them safer. If we are to "get back to summer" or to have a week-end and holiday celebrations, that will have to come about through the exercise of good sense.

Canadians are paying a terrific price for setting a low value on their own safety and the safety of other people when they knock off work for a day and go out in search of entertainment and recreation.

The European Elections

By Dorothy Thompson

Although the Italian people have voted for a republic, in Italy, as in France, the political scene as most popular is the more conservative of the major contestants.

The French example is the more interesting, for France has been for centuries the political barometer of Europe. Why have the communists succeeded in the country, which is the key to the European mentality? The European communist form the most dynamic party. They played a leading role in the resistance movements. They have able leadership, leading disciplined followers.

Laissez faire Capitalism is tired in Europe. Every political party is more or less anti-capitalist. One might have expected Communism to sweep Europe, especially Italy and France. The reason is simply the political tradition of Europe and Western civilization as a whole is founded in liberty, and recognizes the imperative need of checks and balances to power. It cannot conceive of freedom except as including rights which the individual derives from nature.

For although Europeans may want greater economic equality they are not willing to throw into the ash can the achievements of the revolutions which brought the individual protection against arbitrary arrest, and gave his written law, intellectual freedom, the separation of, or contract between, Church and State, leaving religion protected, the right that is rendering unto the State the things that are the State's, but to reserve definite things that are the State's.

However radical, therefore, western men may be, the majority of them will always resist any party which offers equality without freedom, and reform without protection of the individual. Nor will they accept a party which has the horrors of terror, willing to go through another reign of terror to achieve the millennium.

The union of the Christian nobility, Catholic and Protestant, with the social-revolutionary Social Democrats was the basis of the German anti-Nazi movement. These plotted to overthrow Hitler's regime in behalf of a United States of Europe having in mind equality of opportunity, free development, welfare and justice, not for masses which is a convenient phrase for pattern makers, but for individuals.

'Today in Europe'

By Randolph Churchill

PARIS -- Few capital cities are truly representative of the countries of which they are the political centers. Washington is perhaps the most representative. Paris is supposed to be one of the most, but it is certainly not so today.

Results of the French referendum and election are proof that Paris is not the nerve center of France, but it is clear that its reaction to French opinion outside the capital is by no means as sensitive as it should be.

Of course, if every one knew the result of an election beforehand, there would not be much point in holding it. Last year, in Britain, the political leaders, least of all the laborites, predicted a labor party victory. But under the British system, if there is a limit to what any party can win or lose, what is striking is that neither the British nor the French referendum nor before the election did any one succeed in detecting the trend of public opinion.

In seven months, there have been two general elections and one referendum. In the next seven there must be another referendum and another election. So much for the sense that the political parties are bound to take every decision with the greatest care on the coming elections.

Through every one wants an end to the provisional government, the election of an assembly which can last five years, many Frenchmen have taken a fancy to referendum.

There would be advantages. Under the French system, it is virtually impossible for any party to carry a clear majority. This results in much political bargaining on the basis of speculation. One must wait until the referendum provides a simple method of discovering the majority. It would also spare political leaders many anxious hours and days calculating, perhaps wrongly, whether they would win or lose votes by supporting or opposing this or that measure.

The Road Ahead

By Harper Prosser, M.P.

When I was a small boy I heard a man say "figures lie but facts tell". I have had occasion to recall that statement many, many times in the years between then and now and the old adage leaped back to mind again the other day when I read an article in the Financial Post which purported to show that not only did Canada not have a housing shortage, but was better off today than at any time in our history.

In the first place the article speaks of the 60,000 houses a year as being built at the present. Where they got that figure is a complete mystery. Even the optimistic estimates for this year stopped at 50,000 and now the officials state that if we get 30,000 this year we will be lucky. That is 30,000 new homes. Nothing is said about the homes which will be destroyed by fire, which will be should be condemned because they have deteriorated to the point where they are no longer safe.

The facts which aren't taken into consideration are these: First, the average Canadian family of today is considerably smaller than the average Canadian family of yesterday. Secondly, the Canadian housing unit of today is, generally speaking, either a four or five roomed house and two or three roomed apartment. The housing unit of yesterday was a big rambling house. To support this statement, I take a look in any district, rural or urban, at the homes that were built 25 or more years ago and compare the roominess with the homes that are being built today. This tendency is increasing. Regarding what figures are produced the facts are clearly these: Firstly there are practically no new houses being built in any village, town or city in the country today. Secondly thousands of families are living in temporary shelter accommodation under disgraceful conditions.

Our Experimental Farms

This month is the sixtieth anniversary of an institution which has played a great part in the development of Canada—the experimental farm. It was in 1886, that parliament authorized the establishment of the first five farms from which the present great organization has grown.

These sixty years have seen remarkable achievement. The original five farms with a total of 3,500 acres have grown to thirty-four with a total of 37,500 acres. But more impressive than the physical growth has been the quality of the work done.

The great endeavour of the experimental farm staffs has always been to develop the crops and animals which could give best under Canadian conditions and to perfect agricultural methods to meet the special hazards and difficulties of our soil and climate.

The breeding of early-maturing Marquis wheat by the late Dr. William Saunders, an event which made possible the grain industry of the prairie provinces—was perhaps the most spectacular instance of this, but it is only one of many similar achievements. Ever since 1886, agricultural scientists have been laboring to produce harder strains of wheat, better beef cattle, more productive dairy cows, means of combating drought and soil drifting.

Equally important has been the experimental farm's work among farmers. In this, the small sub-stations scattered over the Dominion have played a leading role in providing visible proof to the neighbourhood of the advantages of scientific agriculture.

More and more, Canadian farmers have learned to look to the experimental farm for advice and help in their problems.

As Dr. E. S. Archibald, superintendent of the experimental farms pointed out recently, there are now only about 50,000,000 acres of agricultural land left unoccupied in Canada. Prospects of increased agricultural production in the future depend very largely on more efficient use of the land now in cultivation.

In promoting such improvement, the experimental farms are certain to play an even more vital role than they have done in the past sixty years.

Black Market in Butter

Butter has long possessed a notorious and active underworld, and it was not to be expected that it would overlook the opportunities for profit afforded by rationing. Disclosures made by the C.C.M.P. reveal a most flourishing black market in and around Canada's largest city.

Butter and sugar are the commodities on which these racketeers have been most successful. They apparently obtained their supplies, in part at least, through the use of counterfeit ration stamps. The racketeers have seized 900 of these, along with 12,500 pounds of butter. They claim to have traced illegal sales of 250,000 pounds more butter, and the total amount of rationed goods handled by the ring may come to 5,000,000 pounds.

Black marketing on this scale is a real menace to the war effort. If left unchecked it can grow and spread, diverting ever-increasing quantities of foodstuffs from legitimate channels.

The inevitable result would be rapid and uncontrolled increase in prices and a growing shortage of rationed foods for those sections of the general public who cannot or will not pay the racketeers' prices. That has been the experience in many other countries and it might just as easily happen here.

A thorough job of breaking up the racketeering ring, and the others which may appear elsewhere, is required. Constant vigilance and prompt action are necessary to end this vicious racket under control.

The courts will also have to recognize the seriousness of the offence, and impose adequate sentences on those found guilty. The fines awarded to date are a paltry little more than "license fees" when profits of the business are considered. There is need for punishment which really hurts.

A noble example of stick-in-to-your-story was provided by a Toronto radio announcer, who, in the midst of a pouring rain, calmly read a weather bureau forecast of fine weather.

'UNESCO'

One of the most interesting and least known offshoots of the United Nations Organization is the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, commonly known as "UNESCO".

The purpose of this organization, which was set up by some forty-four members of the United Nations at a conference in London last November, is to promote international co-operation in the fields of science, education and intellectual activities generally. Such co-operation is sought not only for its own sake but as a means of promoting understanding and peace.

As its constitution declares: "Since wars began in the minds of men, it is the duty of the United Nations to defend the peace and to construct it."

The first general conference of UNESCO is likely to be held in the near future. A preparatory commission is now at work on the agenda. This will be largely concerned with measures to promote the free passage of ideas, information and knowledge across national frontiers—an objective generally recognized as necessary if understanding is to increase and suspicion and distrust diminish.

In addition, the commission will make a survey of the destruction done by the war to the educational and cultural institutions of the devastated countries, and the steps necessary to replace them.

If "UNESCO" lives up to its high purposes, it should prove a most valuable asset to the United Nations.

Treaty Destroyed

One of Adolf Hitler's latest and most curious official acts, it is disclosed, was the destruction of the original draft of the Treaty of Versailles. The document had been captured by the German army when it took Paris in 1940, and was apparently given to the Kaiser just before the end of the war.

The Fuehrer's action was singularly ungrateful. After all, the Versailles treaty played no inconsiderable role in his rise to power. He got his start as an orator in the Munich beer-hall, denouncing it and declaiming about the insults it offered to the German "master race".

Indeed, in the early years of his career, none of his public speeches was complete without a few uncomplicated references to the "Versailles dicta". It was the actual weakness and ineffectiveness of the 1919 settlement, moreover, which made possible Germany's rearmament and her second bid for world power.

One of the great problems of the coming years will be to prevent some future Hitler from tearing up the Versailles treaty, or at least the Potsdam agreement.

Tulips from Holland

Ottawa residents are now admiring a veritable sea of tulips, blossoming around the parliament buildings and elsewhere in the capital. They are the gift of the Dutch government, which sent 100,000 bulbs to Ottawa in commemoration of the Canadian army's service in Holland. Similar gifts have been made to Montreal and Toronto.

We can appreciate the pride of Ottawa people in these beautiful flowers. It might be a gracious gesture, however, if some of them were sent to other Canadian cities—say to the nine provincial capitals. Men of the province of Canada took part in the liberation of Holland, and the tulips would be a long-lasting memorial of their exploits.

Here and There

A new British stamp will contain, besides the traditional King's head, pictures of a tractor, a power station, a dam and a pair of horses. The housing problem will be acute.

A new high was reached in the housing shortage when the town council of Owen Sound, Ontario was evicted from the town hall.

The Third Column

ARGENTINA WANTS FAULKLANDS

By Ernie Hill

Three hundred miles east of the Straits of Magellan, in the southern tip of South America, are the Falkland Islands. For two centuries they have been recognized by the world, but not by Argentina, as British.

Argentina now congress will consider a proposal for asking the United Nations to take the Falkland Islands away from Britain and give them permanently and definitely to Argentina.

In Buenos Aires, young British and American children go to English school in the morning. In the afternoon they are required to take Spanish lessons from an Argentine teacher. Someone recently asked one youngster about ownership of the Falklands.

"Well," he said, "in the morning they belong to the British. In the afternoon they are Argentina's."

Argentina has never been satisfied that the sheep ranches and their owners are British. Instead of Argentine, it recently refused to recognize British passports issued at Stanley, capital of the islands, with 1,200 inhabitants.

Argentina's new congress, which will convene in the President-Elect Juan Domingo Peron, on June 4, will undoubtedly approve the proposal for annexing the islands to the U.N. It will cost nothing and Argentine believes it has a good case.

Economically, the islands are of small use. Strategically, they are of importance as a guardian base for the Straits of Magellan.

Chicago Daily News

The Falkland Islands were first seen by Davis in the year 1592, and Sir Richard Hawkins, sailed along their coast in 1594. He claimed the islands for the Dutchman, but to a previous discovery are doubtful. In 1731, said the Dutchman, he sighted them, and called them the Sebald Islands, a name which they bear on a Dutch map.

Captain Strong sailed through between the two principal islands in 1820, and upon the return he called the passage Falkland Sound, and from this the group afterwards took its name.

In 1764 the French explorer de Bougainville took possession of the islands on behalf of France. He established a colony at Port Louis on Berkeley Sound. But in 1767 France ceded the islands to Britain, Bougainville being employed as intermediary. Meanwhile in 1765 Commodore Byron had taken possession of the islands on behalf of Great Britain.

The Spanish and English settlers remained in ignorance, each of the other's presence until 1769-1770, when Byron's action was nearly the cause of a war between England and Spain, both countries having armed fleets to contest the barren sovereignty.

In 1811, the British yielded the islands to Great Britain by convention.

THE CARELESS COLONEL

From the Calgary Herald

Ottawa reports have it that Col. Nikolai, alleged chief of Russian spy work in Canada, is dead. These reports say that Col. Nikolai succumbed four days after returning to Moscow. Cause of death: heart trouble.

Zatobin, it will be recalled, didn't do too well in Ottawa. A spy leader should keep his work strictly confidential. But Zatobin's espionage activities in Canada were so carelessly handled that they hit the headlines.

Zatobin's inefficiency must have troubled a good many hearts in the Kremlin. So perhaps the report of his passing means exactly what it says: the colonel's death was due to a troubled heart. Not necessarily his own.

Britain Is Building Big Merchant Navy

By Frank Swanson

(From Edmonton Journal's London Bureau)

LONDON—Britain's century-old shipbuilding industry, converted from war to peacetime production, is building the greatest fleet of merchant ships ever to be launched by a single nation.

United Kingdom shipyards will turn out during the next few months more ships than at any time during the last 20 years. More than 5,000,000 tons of merchant ships alone are now under construction.

This is Britain's challenge to the rest of the world for continued maritime supremacy.

Most of the ships now under construction will go into service this year, and seldom a week passes without a big, fast cargo liner sliding down the slipways in the Clyde. Tynes or Tyne—greatest centres of activity in the mammoth program.

The new merchant navy will consist mainly of modern refrigerated food ships.

Every known improvement in shipbuilding and many wartime discoveries will be incorporated with traditional British craftsmanship in the new cargo carriers. The refrigerated cargo liners, it is claimed, will be the fastest long ships in the world.

All will be equipped with the latest in quick-freezing methods designed to bring food cargoes here from all the world in exactly the same condition in which they left their ports of origin.

As the new post-war ships slip down the slipways they will carry at their mastheads the famous Red Ensign of the British Merchant Navy, for centuries symbolic of sea supremacy. The new fleet will carry on great traditions of the past with the service of the future.

Keats Is Favorite Of Poetry Society

LONDON—Keats ranks as the favorite poet of members of the Poetry Society who were asked what poems they would choose for reading if marooned on a desert island. The choice was limited to those since the 18th century, not exceeding 150 lines.

"Keats is undoubtedly the favorite poet," the society said, with his "Ode to a Nightingale" the most chosen poem. Other favorites were Wordsworth's "Westminster Bridge," Shelley's "Ode to the West Wind," Rupert Brooke's "The Soldier," "The Great Lover," and "Graveyard," De la Mare's "The Listeners," Masfield's "Sea Fever," Alice Meynell's "Abroad," and Coleridge's "Kubla Khan."

The society reported Browning appeared to be "the most widely read poet." Tennyson was "comparatively nowhere" and De la Mare "the favorite living poet."

Bridge
By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
With 44 of the country's greatest players assembled to participate in a world championship event, one would expect only the best of bridge. But experts are human also.

Today's hand from the Master's Individual tournament was bid in various ways, and therefore I have shown no bidding. Three players with the South hand arrived at a five-heart contract, which was double and re-doubled, and all three of the experts went down, each finding a different line of play to that end.

The correct procedure is to win the first diamond in dummy with the ace, ruff a diamond in declarer's hand, then lead a spade.

If West ducks, dummy wins with the queen and leads another diamond to ruff. Now declarer knows that the diamond suit is going to break. He can pick up the hearts, winning the last in his own hand, then lead a spade.

West will have to go in and cash his ace of clubs in order to hold the declarer to five-odd.

When the treatment of weeds on the links has been completed work will start on city boulevards. Mayor Ainlay asked property owners to co-operate in the destruction of noxious weeds.

Crops, Livestock Aided by Rains

Recent rains have aided crops and livestock in the province to a considerable degree, according to a report issued Thursday by the department of agriculture. The report is for the period ending June 12.

Soil moisture conditions are generally satisfactory with both surface and subsoil moisture reported good. Very little damage has occurred with the exception of the soil drifting earlier in the year. Some reseeded was necessary in the south but has now been completed. There is some cutworm and worm activity but little damage has resulted. SEEDING WILL BE completed this week. Wheat now averages five inches and coarse grains three to four inches. Livestock pastures have benefited from the rains and livestock conditions throughout the province are generally good. There is a keen demand for all classes of good breeding stock. Prices of high quality beef animals are very satisfactory.

Prospects for milk production during June are fairly bright. Creamery butter production during May was 7.6 per cent above 1945, while factory cheese was down four per cent.

Rhode Island has 668.6 persons per square mile of its area.

Cafes Must Not Raise Milk Prices

By Victor Mackie
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, June 13. - Restaurant and cafe proprietors who raised the price of milk charged patrons following the removal of the consumer milk subsidy were warned Wednesday by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board that they may not increase the price charged for milk served by the glass or with meals.

Some restaurants including the parliamentary cafeteria—throughout the country apparently misinterpreting regulations dealing with legally raised milk prices. The Prices Board pointed out that when milk subsidy payments were introduced restaurants and cafes were not asked to readjust prices. Therefore with discontinuance of subsidy payments June 1 they are prohibited from charging customers more than they did before or after December, 1945.

Start June 21st
Departmental examinations will get underway in the province on June 21 for Grade 12 students and on June 24 for Grade 9. The last of the examinations will be written June 28. Grade 10 and 11 students do not write the exams but are promoted on recommendation of the teacher.

FIGURES RELEASED by the department of education Wednesday show an increase in the number of students writing examinations this year compared with 1945. In Grade 9 11,500 students will sit while 6,500 Grade 12 students will write the exams. In both cases the figures represent an approximate increase of 1,000, as compared with last year.

It is expected that the shipment of papers will be completed by the end of the week. Papers are being shipped to Alberta students in far off places such as India, Bermuda, and the Yukon besides other provinces in the Dominion.

UNEXPLODED JAP TORPEDO FOUND NEAR GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

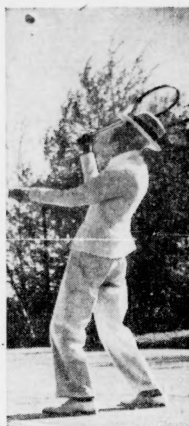

P-80 EXPECTED TO DWARF ALL NEW YORK-ALBANY SPEED RECORDS

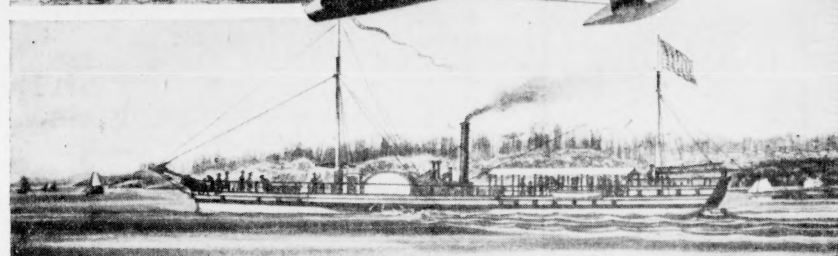

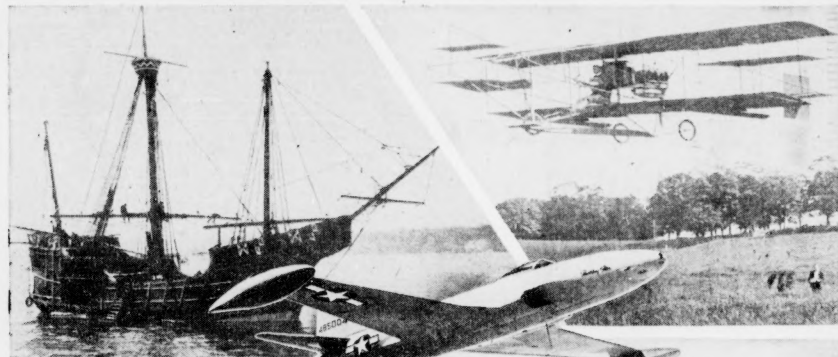

Copyright, 1946, by Acme Newspictures, Inc.

THE ATTACK THAT FAILED—Navy demolition experts drag ashore a section of a 25-foot torpedo found in the San Francisco Bay, west of the Golden Gate Bridge, which apparently had been fired in an attack that failed. An earlier section recovered, lies on beach at right.

STILL GOING STRONG—King Gustave, 87-year-old Swedish ruler, starts his 1946 tennis season.

A NEW MILESTONE IN THE HISTORY OF SPEED—In a few days, a P-80 Shooting Star, driven by a jet engine, will fly from New York City to Albany, N. Y.; its expected flying time, 13 minutes. The flight of the Shooting Star will be a far cry from the five days it took Henry Hudson to sail his "Half-Moon," upper left, approximately the same distance when he made one of the first exploratory trips up the Hudson River in 1609. Even Robert Fulton never dreamed the time could be cut so drastically. He thought he had set an all-time record in 1807 when, after one failure, he drove his steamboat "Clermont," bottom, from New York City to Albany in only 32 hours. Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the New York World, offered $10,000 to the first man to fly from Albany to New York in 1910, and Glenn Curtis accepted the challenge. Curtis made the flight in two hours, 50 minutes, at an average speed of 54 4/5 miles an hour, but Curtis had to stop once for oil, and was barely able to out-distance a railroad train. Flight of the Shooting Star will mark the opening of the General Electric Company's Air Research Demonstration at Schenectady, N. Y. (Picture of "Half-Moon" and "Clermont" from N. Y. Historical Society.)

TIGHT SQUEEZE—Joe Ezar, trick shot golfer, puts the voodoo sign on ball just before it dropped in cup for successful putt at Medinah Country Club, Glenview, Ill. Shot won medalist honors in the qualifying trials of the National Open Tourney.

CORONATED—Anba Yussab II, the 115th spiritual descendant of St. Mark the Evangelist, becomes ruler of the Church of Egypt. Following coronation at Cairo a subject kisses hand of the new Patriarch. Exclusive photo by Emil Reynolds, Acme staff photographer.

HERE'S HOW—Sports reporter Bill Stern gives Charlie McCarthy a few pointers in Hollywood on how to cover a ball game. The chances are Bergen is some place close by.

NOSTALGIC PARTY—Jimmy Durante and Eddie Jackson revive "Hinky Dinky Doo" during party held in the old "Silver Slipper" in New York City, where the team of Clayton, Jackson and Durante were featured during the turbulent 20's. Occasion marked 30 years in show business for trouper Durante.

STRONGHOLD SHATTERED—The interior of the Municipal Building in Changchun, Manchuria, is a mass of wreckage after the Nationalist forces used it as a stronghold during brief struggle against the Chinese Communists. Reinforcements enabled Nationalists to take the important city.

GIFT—An oil portrait of President Truman and his mother, painted by Grace Annette DuPre, center, was presented to the President in Washington, D. C., by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, right. The painting was inspired by a prize-winning photograph.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

WE ALWAYS THINK of college girls as leading charmed lives because they are so young and carefree and full of pep. This is a happy time but actually the girl in college is under quite a physical strain. The director of physical education is likely to know more about this than any of the other teachers in the school. She instructs the girls in hygiene, is told about their aches and pains, and because of her association with them in sports and play, she is a natural friend and confidant.

ACCORDING TO SEVERAL teachers with whom I have talked, many college girls suffer from fatigue and most of them are carrying a heavy load. They must study seriously and they are most interested and involved in extra curricular activities such as clubs, sports, hobbies, and study groups. Then, too, there is the social life which is so intriguing to girls of this age. Besides this many young women today are working part time in order to help finance themselves through school.

ONE INTELLIGENT teacher of physical education makes an effort to discover the value of exercise in helping girls to carry this load. She has given them questionnaires with such questions as "Does exercise make you sleep better? Does it aid you in relaxing?" The answers are most gratifying to a teacher of physical education. IT SEEMS THAT the girl herself, the parents and the school, should guard against the danger of tensions and fatigue which too many activities, adjustments, and complexities may bring about. Girls of this age are still most susceptible to physical repercussions and should have reserve of energy. These tensions and adjustments may well be reflected in instability of temperament, weariness and discouragement.

IF YOU WISH to have my exercises for relaxing send stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 24 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SUES STUDIO
 LOS ANGELES, June 13. (AP)—Because she claimed a black widow spider being used in a movie publicity picture climbed up her leg and bit her on the back, actress Beverly Lloyd filed suit yesterday for $100,000 damages against Hal Roach studio. The bite made her ill, she declared.

No Rat Plague Is Probable Here

N.L. Poulin, Winnipeg rodent exterminator authority, believes that Edmonton will never be plagued with a large number of rats, but stated Thursday that the city is heavily infested with mice and cockroaches. He is supervising the killing of rodents in several large business premises in the city. Edmonton is triple the average found in "THE NUMBER OF mice in Edmonton-infested areas such as Winnipeg," Mr. Poulin said, adding that it was hoped that a new chemical which he has produced will soon rid Manitoba cities of rats. The chemical makes the rats kill each other, he claimed, and said that a test carried out in a barn on the outskirts of Winnipeg was most successful. "I think that chemical will prevent rats ever becoming a nuisance here," he said.

A WARNING about your NEXT WINTER'S FUEL.

NEXT WINTER'S FUEL SUPPLY depends upon your action today. Coal must be kept moving from the mines to household bins in order to employ skilled Western Canadian miners through the summer. One sure way to do this is to place your order today and accept delivery as soon as your coal dealer is able to make it.

It's up to you and your neighbours to get behind this effort for the common good of all. The present situation is critical, and mines must be kept operating, but it can be solved if everyone takes action now. Order your coal at once and assure yourself of comfort next winter.
